Officers Involved In Shooting In Mulino

On March 4, 2009, at about 10:30 p.m., two Clackamas County Sheriff's Deputies went to 13262 S. Macksburg Rd., to attempt to take two persons into custody on arrest warrants.

Each of these felony arrest warrants were issued with the charges identified as:

Manufacturing of a controlled substance

Delivery of a controlled substance

Possession of a controlled substance

The warrants were related to an investigation in the Fall of 2008 of a marijuana grow.

At about 10:39 p.m. deputies knocked on the door and identified themselves. They were confronted at the front door by Hubert Henkel, age 68, who was discovered to be armed with a firearm, non-compliant and pointing his firearm in a threatening fashion directly at each of the two Deputies. As a result of this armed and threatening encounter presented to the Deputies, Hubert Henkel was fatally shot and died at the scene.

Clackamas County Sheriff's Office SWAT and detectives responded to the location. After SWAT secured the residence a female was removed from the residence via ambulance due to medical issues unrelated to the incident.

The female, Marjorie Crawford, age 80, has been arrested on outstanding warrants for Manufacturing, Delivery, and Possession of a Controlled Substance - Marijuana. She has since been arraigned on these charges in the Clackamas County Circuit Court, on March 5, 2009, and on that occasion released by the court on her own recognizance. Crawford is set to appear in court on this continuing matter April 6, 2009, at 9:00 a.m.

The two involved Clackamas County Sheriff's Office Deputies were not physically injured during this armed encounter and are identified as:

- 1. Deputy Brian Lister who has prior law-enforcement experience with the Molalla Police Department dating back to December, 1998; the Seaside Police Department, between May, 2003 and January, 2007. Brian Lister was hired as a Clackamas County Sheriff's Deputy in January, 2007.
- 2. Deputy Jesse Ashby has prior law-enforcement experience while serving with the West Linn Police Department as a reserve Officer between October, 2001 and July, 2003. Moving into a full-time West Linn Police Officer

State Releases 2008 Population Survey

The Oregon Progress Board has released the findings of the 2008 Oregon Population Survey. The survey provides a wealth of data on income, employment, education, child care, disability status, and internet usage.

The telephone survey, conducted during the summer and fall of 2008 also provides information on Oregonians' perceptions of issues like health care access and the effectiveness Oregon's government.

Key Findings

Oregon Households:

Self-reported median household income increased from $44,610 to $47,320 between 2005 and 2007 (2007 dollars).

Roughly 13 percent of Oregon households report incomes below the poverty level in 2007, about the same rate as 2005.

Seventy-nine percent of households have personal computers and 74 percent have Internet access, slightly up from 2006. Households with high-speed Internet access grew significantly from 46 percent in 2006 to 61 percent in 2008.

Education:

Roughly a third of Oregon adults 25 and over have a fouryear college degree or higher, up slightly from 2006. The percent of Oregonians with an Associate's or occupationrelated certificate remained steady at approximately 26 percent.

Over 80 percent of school-age children attended public schools, up slightly from the 2006 survey. About 10 percent attended private schools and roughly 5 percent attended charter schools or were home-schooled.

In-Migration:

In-migration has slowed to 17 percent, six percentage points lower that the 2006 rate. The decline was most pronounced in southern and eastern Oregon and the central Willamette valley.

Health and Well-being:

Seventeen percent of Oregonians report suffering from a long-lasting disability, similar to 2006. About half of seniors 75 and over live with a disability.

Oregonians' Perceptions

Perceptions about their state and community:

Roughly 86 percent feel somewhat or very positive about the state, similar to 2006. Half of all Oregonians feel connected to their community. Fifty-four percent feel Oregon is doing a good job in assuring affordable access to health care, an increase of 11 percentage points from the 2006 survey. However, respondents' perception of how well Oregon creates jobs dropped sharply from 60 percent in 2006 to 47 percent in 2008.

Perceptions about government services in general:

More Oregonians feel very or somewhat positive about government services—up from 60 percent in 2004 to 67 percent in 2008. This includes positive perceptions about the state's efforts to manage growth and prevent sprawl, which increased from 61 percent in 2006 to 66 percent in 2008.

Perceptions about government services in education:

The following percentages of Oregonians feel the state is doing somewhat or very well with Oregon's education system: community colleges (86 percent); public four-year colleges and universities (80 percent); kindergarten through 12th grade (70 percent). The K-12 rate is a 10-percentage-point improvement over the 2006 survey. Perceptions for postsecondary education are about the same.

Perceptions about government services in environment:

Oregonians continue to feel that the state is doing a good job in preserving natural resources and the environment. Over 80 percent rated Oregon as somewhat or very good on all four questions pertaining to conservation efforts. With a 91-percent approval rating, providing parks and open spaces continues to be the highest-rated service.

Survey Background

Every two years since 1990, a consortium of 18 state agencies has utilized the Oregon Population Survey to ask Oregonians a battery of questions that cover such topics as child care, employment, technology use, and many other facets of life in the state. The result is an in-depth picture of the lives, families and jobs of Oregonians and the state's quality of life.

The 2008 Oregon Population Survey was conducted under contract to the Oregon Progress Board by Opinion Research Northwest. Approximately 4,100 household representatives were interviewed statewide. Some questions were answered by a smaller number of respondents.

PLEASE NOTE: The questionnaire and PowerPoint slide show summarizing the findings are available at http://www.oregon.gov/DAS/OPB/popsurvey.shtml. The complete 2008 Oregon Population Survey data is online at www.oregon.gov/DAS/OEA.

"2D-3D Organics" Opens in Alexander Gallery

"2D-3D Organics" featuring artists Rex Silvernail and Mark Perry, opens in the Alexander Gallery at Clackamas Community College on Monday, April 6, and continues through May 8. An artist's reception will take place on Thursday, April 9, from 3:00-6:00 p.m.

Most of the materials Rex Silvernail uses in his sculptures are commonly associated with industrial applications. He writes in his artist's statement, "The structural concepts reflect an interest I have in the art of joinery. I became interested in primitive methods of combining materials while studying and observing past and present original peoples in the western coastal region of Canada."

Perry is an artist printmaker who works primarily in etching, relief, intaglio and woodcut methods. For the past two and guidelines are available at the public library. Open for Kindergarten to Adult. Submit to MPL April 1-30, 2009. There will be a 1st & 2nd place winner in each age category.

Residents Encouraged to Check Smoke Alarms

Oregon State Fire Marshal Randy Simpson urged residents to check their smoke alarms when changing their clock to Daylight Savings Time March 8th. Many Oregonians have smoke alarms with ten-year batteries so the old saying, 'Change your clock, change your batteries' may not be correct for many households.

Smoke alarm laws in Oregon are different from most other states. Since 1999, law requires all ionization-only smoke alarms sold in the state to have a hush feature; and if an ionization-only smoke alarm is also solely battery-operated, it must also come with a 10-year lithium battery.

"Oregonians should first test their smoke alarm battery before automatically replacing it," says Oregon State Fire Marshal Randy Simpson. "Long-life lithium batteries have a life span of up to 10 years and if your alarm has one of these batteries, it may not need replacing every time you change your clock. However, if your smoke alarms are ten years old or older you should replace them entirely," says Simpson. "Also remember to test and vacuum your smoke alarm monthly."

Working smoke alarms provide an early warning to a fire, allowing you vital minutes to escape and increasing your chances of surviving a fire. Additional safety tips:

Install smoke alarms on every level of your home and outside each sleeping area

Replace smoke alarms 10 years old or older Hard-wired alarms should have battery back-ups

Never disconnect or remove batteries from smoke alarms for other uses

Make a home escape plan and practice it

For more smoke alarm and fire safety information, contact your local fire department or visit http://www.oregon.gov/OSP/SFM/CommEd_SA_Program.shtml.

Military Veterans to Receive Cash Payment

President Obama has signed the American Recovery and Reinvestment Act of 2009. The Congressionally approved legislation includes tax-related provisions providing cash payments to certain veterans. The Economic Recovery Payment only will be paid by the Social Security Administration, Department of Veterans Affairs (VA) and the Railroad Retirement Board.

Disabled veterans that are in receipt of VA Compensation and Pension (C&P) will automatically receive a cash payment of $250. Economic Recovery one-time payments will be deposited to the account on file with VA and are expected to arrive during the summer.

Last year veterans and spouses received an economic stimulus payment. Unlike the last payment, no action is required on the part of the veteran to receive this economic recovery payment. CCC Offers New Degree in Digital Multimedia Communications

The Portland area is growing in popularity with the film-making industry. The blockbuster animated film "Coraline" was produced in Oregon, and some scenes of the popular vampire-romance movie "Twilight" were filmed at Clackamas Community College.

"The creative industry is a growing field," says CCC instructor Andy Mingo. "More people are bringing their films to the Portland area and are in need of skilled workers. Clackamas' Digital Multimedia Communications (DMC) degree is designed to give people concrete job opportunities."

Clackamas' new associate's degree in Digital Multimedia Communications was approved by the state in January. The DMC program offers several different fields of focus including: audio and sound engineering, broadcast journalism, film studies, graphic design, music and sound for media, video production and web design. An internship in the media industry is part of the program.

Students can begin the two-year DMC program at Clackamas during any term and do not need any special media equipment.

"CCC has state-of-the-art equipment including highdefinition video cameras, audio equipment, a recording studio, and Mac labs for video editing. These are all available for DMC students to use," says Mingo.

Students who have completed integrated media studies (IMS) or other courses at Clackamas may be able to apply their credits toward the DMC associate's degree. For more information, contact CCC instructor Andy Mingo at 503-657-6958, ext. 2803 or andym@clackamas.edu.

Trouble Paying Insurance Premiums? Do Not Make Rash Decisions

Rising unemployment and the weak economy are forcing many Oregonians to look for ways to cut costs, including insurance expenses. As part of National Consumer Protection Week March 1-7, the state Department of Consumer and Business Services today released a list of frequently asked questions (FAQs) about maintaining insurance coverage during tough economic times.

"During these uncertain economic times, many Oregonians may be having difficulty paying for insurance premiums," said Teresa Miller, acting director of the Insurance Division. "We urge consumers to call their insurance company or our division before they make any drastic changes to their plans. There may be some help available, or a more affordable option."

There are Frequently Asked Questions available on the DCBS Insurance Division Web site at: www.insurance. oregon.gov to answer your questions regarding:

Oregon City Police Department And OLCC Take Action Against Underage Drinking

The Oregon City Police Department has received a grant to assist us in reducing underage drinking in our community. The grant, Reducing Youth Access to Alcohol (RYAA) has been used by the department to enforce underage drinking laws at local football games, school dances and other sporting events.

On February 19, 2009 the Oregon City Police Department and Oregon Liquor Control Commission (OLCC) conducted a "sting" on twenty Oregon City establishments that sell alcohol. The sting involved volunteers under the age of 21 years old to go into an establishment and attempt to purchase alcohol. Of the twenty establishments targeted, seventeen did not sell to the volunteers. The three establishments that did sell alcohol to the minors were issued a citation and contacted by the OLCC representative.

The RYAA grant has been very successful for the Oregon City Police Department in reducing the availability of alcohol to minors and educating kids on alcohol addiction.

Do We Have Your Money?

Oregonians, like most Americans, are likely searching for ways to weather the current economic downturn.

The state of Oregon, specifically the Department of State Lands (DSL), may be holding "missing" money for citizens to reclaim. DSL houses the state's Unclaimed Property Program, and encourages people to check its Web site www.oregonstatelands.us - to see if they have unclaimed property (mostly money) due to them.

"Over $300 million is available for claim by the owner or their heirs," said the program's manager, Patrick Tate. "With over one million owners reported, there is a one in four chance an online inquiry will find property due to you or a relative. While a few large amounts are reported, most are between $50 and $500."

Reported assets include inactive bank accounts, stocks, mutual funds, refunds and payroll checks. Businesses and organizations are required by law to send all unclaimed assets to DSL after a specific period of time, generally three years, and after trying to find owners. Once reported, there is no time limit for the owner to file their claim.

In 2008, DSL returned $12.8 million to owners. Check for your name today, and check back often, as new information is added to the Web site regularly.

Unclaimed property is held for claim by owners in the Common School Fund, a trust fund established at statehood to benefit Oregon's public schools, and administered by DSL. Earnings from the fund are distributed twice a year by the Oregon Department of Education; in 2008, $55.4 million was sent to Oregon's 197 school districts.

The State Land Board consists of Governor Theodore Kulongoski, Secretary of State Kate Brown and State Treasurer Ben Westlund. The Department of State Lands administers diverse natural and fiscal resources. Many of the resources generate revenue for the Common School Fund, such as state-owned rangelands and timberlands, waterway leases, estates for which no will and heirs exist, and unclaimed property. Twice a year, the agency distributes fund investment earnings to support K-12 public schools. The agency also administers Oregon's Removal-Fill Law, which requires people removing or filling certain amounts of material in waters of the state to obtain a permit.

Oregon City School District online survey seeks community input for budget priorities

The Oregon City School District launched an online survey March 3, 2009, to gather community priorities for services as the district addresses a shortfall in the 2009-2010 budget.

The survey may be accessed directly at http://www. zoomerang.com/Survey/survey-intro.zgi? p=WEB228VDSVNVQD. By the time you read this is should be available on the district's web site (www.orecity.k12.or.

Additionally, visitors to the district's website can also review detailed information from questions that arose in the Public Input Forums held last month and more under the Financial Updates section.

Oregon City Schools are looking to address a more than $6 million budget shortfall, stemming from declining enrollment trends, recently announced reductions in state funding and increasing personnel and energy costs.

For those who might not have access to the internet, you

Injured Hawk Struck By Vehicle on Interstate 5 Extricated and Taken to Audubon Society for Treatment

An Oregon State Police (OSP) Fish & Wildlife trooper and Milwaukie-area man worked together to rescue a hawk that was lodged in the front section of the man's sport utility vehicle after it was struck on Interstate 5. The hawk was transported by the trooper to the Audubon Society of Portland to be examined for its injuries.

On March 4, 2009, at approximately 6:30 a.m. a Ford Expedition driven by the man was northbound on Interstate 5 at freeway speeds near the Canby exit when an adult red tail hawk flew in front of the vehicle and was struck. After stopping, the man checked the front of his vehicle and discovered the hawk had broken through the front grill and was injured, stuck between the radiator and grill.

OSP Senior Trooper Mike Hanson responded to the man's residence in Milwaukie. the man's help, they removed the vehicle's front grill and dislodged the injured hawk.

Senior Trooper Hanson transported the injured hawk to the Audubon Society of Portland's Wildlife Care Center for an examination of its injuries by Veterinarian Deb Sheaffer. The Preliminary examination is encouraging.

Editors Note: On March 18, 2009, I talked to Dr. Scheaffer at the Audubon Society to check the status of the bird. Dr. Scheaffer said they were optimistic that by the time you read this article the bird will have been leased in the area where it was hit.

The bird suffered a cut on one toe of the left foot and some fraying of the primary feathers on one wing. It was amazing that the bird was not more seriously iniured.

Senior, Disabled Citizen Property Tax Deferral Applications Due April 15

April 15 is the filing deadline for two property tax deferral programs: the Disabled Citizen Property Tax Deferral Program and the Senior Citizen Property Tax Deferral Program.

Bram Ekstrand, Oregon Department of Revenue's deferral program manager, said these programs help low-income seniors and people with disabilities continue living in their homes

"Both deferral programs allow qualified taxpayers to defer payment of their property taxes. The State pays the taxes to the County, maintains the account, and charges 6-percent simple interest, which is also deferred," he said.

The state places a lien on the property. The lien is paid when the taxpayer sells the property, permanently moves off the property—other than for short-term health reasons—or if the property changes ownership. A surviving spouse may continue on the deferral program if they qualify.

"We also work with the property heirs to arrange for repayment of the deferral," Ekstrand said.

To qualify for either program, the property must be the taxpayer's main residence. They must have a deed or recorded sales contract. Annual household income must be less than $39,000 for the year before they apply. Participants may stay on either program as long as their federal adjusted gross income is not more than $39,000.

If a participant's household income goes over the limit, the department may defer a portion of the property tax.

Clackamas County Residents, Businesses To Receive SBA Storm-related Disaster

The U. S. Small Business Administration announced Tuesday, March 3, 2009, that low-interest disaster loans are now available to residents and business owners who were affected by the severe winter storms, flooding and landslides that hit the region between Jan. 1 and Jan 4. The agency acted under its own authority to declare a disaster in response to a February disaster assistance request from Governor Theodore R. Kulongoski.

The disaster declaration makes SBA assistance available in the Oregon counties of Clackamas, Hood River, Marion, Multnomah, Wasco, Washington and Yamhill.

Low-interest federal disaster loans are available to homeowners, renters, businesses and non-profit organizations that had property damaged or destroyed during the storms. SBA customer service representatives were on hand at the Disaster Loan Outreach Centers for 4 days in March to issue loan applications, answer questions about SBA's disaster loan program, explain the application process and assist each individual complete their application.

If you missed the opportunity to meet with these people you may also apply online using the Electronic Loan Application (ELA) via SBA's secure Web site at https://disasterloan.sba.gov/ela.

The filing deadline to return applications for property damage and flooding is May 4.

Disaster loans up to $200,000 are available to homeowners to repair or replace damaged or destroyed real estate. Homeowners and renters are eligible for up to $40,000 to repair or replace damaged or destroyed personal property.

Businesses of any size and private, non-profit organizations may borrow up to $2 million to repair or replace damaged or destroyed real estate, machinery and equipment, inventory, and other business assets. SBA can also lend additional funds to homeowners and businesses to help with the cost of making improvements that protect prevent or minimize the same type of disaster damage from occurring in the future.

For small businesses and most private, non-profit organizations of any size, SBA offers Economic Injury Disaster Loans (EIDLs) to help meet working capital needs caused by the disaster. EIDL assistance is available regardless of whether the business suffered any property damage. The deadline to return economic injury applications for this disaster is Dec. 3.

In addition, small businesses economically impacted by the severe winter storms in Oregon that occurred December 14, 2008, through January 4, 2009, may visit either of these online locations to receive assistance in applying for an SBA Economic Injury Disaster Loan (EIDL) under SBA's previously approved separate disaster declaration for that event. Governor Signs Novelty Lighter Bill Into Law

Sale of novelty lighters prohibited on June 2

Governor Ted Kulongoski has signed House Bill 2365 prohibiting the selling or distribution of novelty (toylike) lighters in Oregon.

The bill, sponsored by Representative Paul Holvey, is designed to prevent lighters that look like toys from getting into the hands of children.

"I am pleased the way the House and Senate worked to pass this legislation, with the full support of the Governor," said Oregon State Fire Marshal Randy Simpson. "We have been working on this issue along with our fire service partners for a number of years and now we can begin the process of eliminating these dangerous devices disguised as toys."

Toylike lighters have features that are attractive to children, including visual effects, flashing lights, musical sounds, cartoon or toylike designs or other elements that would reasonably be expected to make it attractive to a child less than 10 years old.

"This was truly a bi-partisan effort," said Juvenile Firesetter Intervention Program Manager Judy Okulitch. "The speed at which this bill was passed shows its importance in protecting children and families from inscrutable manufacturers who are making money with disregard to public safety."

The Oregon Office of State Fire Marshal is responsible for implementing the new law and has started notifying retailers statewide of the new regulations. Retailers have until June 2, 2009 to eliminate their stock of toylike lighters.

"I congratulate Oregon's Fire Marshal and fire safety leaders for putting Oregon, once again, at the forefront in dealing with a new challenge - the dangers of novelty lighters," said Senator Ron Wyden (D-Ore.). "I am re-introducing my federal bill to ban novelty lighters because they have caused too many tragic deaths and injuries and I'm going to work to make sure that these safety hazards masquerading as toys are kept out of the hands of children nationwide. The Oregon Fire Marshal's office has been a national leader in bringing this issue to the attention of members of Congress. I am pleased to work with them to raise awareness of the danger these lighters pose to children in Oregon and across the country."

Oregon was the third state, behind Maine and Tennessee to pass a law banning toylike lighters. Oregon's passage was followed by similar bills in Arkansas and Virginia now waiting for signing by their respective governors.

OMSI Statement To Media

The Oregon Museum of Science and Industry (OMSI) has been in the news recently regarding an incident in which an adult visitor allegedly touched another visitor's child in an inappropriate manner at the museum. We are providing the following information to clarify some inaccurate information that has been reported:

At 4:12 p.m. on March 7 OMSI staff were first alerted to the alleged incident.

At 4:14 p.m. an OMSI staff member called OMSI security to attend to the incident.

Four OMSI personnel responded to the alleged victim's father's concerns.

At 4:23 p.m. OMSI security called the police.

At 4:36 p.m. the police arrived at OMSI.

OMSI staff maintained contact with the alleged perpetrator from the time of the incident until police arrived.

It is important to understand that OMSI's staff and OMSI's on-site security officers are not legally allowed to detain individuals against their will.

OMSI's security officer obtained the alleged perpetrator's personal identification.

OMSI takes this situation very seriously. The safety of all our guests is our number one priority and we are committed to providing a secure environment for all of our visitors.

All of the district's employees (administrators, teachers, classified staff) have agreed to take five days with no pay in order to make up the budget shortfall this school year. This represents approximately a 2.5% reduction in pay for most employees. It translates into a savings of 1.1 million dollars, which was the Oregon City School District's portion of the 1% state budget reduction the governor announced in December.

We are using three snow days, one teacher in-service day and one student contact day to make up the five days. What that means for our families is that the last day of school has been moved from June 10th to June 9th. June 9th will now be a half-day for students with dismissal at 11:10 AM. Kindergarten students last day will now by June 8th. The teacher in-service day that is being cut is April 24th, but students were already scheduled to not be in school that day.

The building will be closed for the entire day on April 24th.

These are extremely difficult times with very difficult decisions to be made. I can assure you that we are making every effort to have the impact on student learning be as minimal as possible.

Transitioning to a discussion on student learning, our 3rd, 4th, 5th and 6th grade students have begun their state testing. We are already seeing wonderful test scores in the first round. Many students have already met the state standard and some have already exceeded the state standard. Students are tested in reading, math and science except for 4th grade, which are tested in reading, math and writing. Students are provided up to three attempts except in writing, which is only one attempt. Scott Curtis, Principal

WALTER GALE MARSHALL

May 4, 1944 - March 21, 2009

Walter Gail Marshall, 64, of Mulino passed away Saturday, March 21, 2009, at Kaiser Sunnyside Hospital.

Walt was born to John and Fay Marshall on May 4, 1944, in Oregon City. He lived most of his life in the Clarkes area. He attended Clarkes' Grade School and graduated from Molalla High School in 1962.

Walter married Sherryl Fletcher Carinan on April 29, 1972. He enjoyed camping, hunting, fishing and spending time with his family.

His work career included production machinist, tool and die maker and quality control inspector. He retired in May of 2006.

Walt was preceded in death by his parents, and mother-inlaw, Betty Carignan. He is survived by his wife, Sherry; sons, Jim (Chrissey) of Oregon City, Jeff (Jill) of Clarkes and Jason (Shawn) of Molalla; sister, Joan Loschiavo (Nick) of Clarkes; father-in-law, Leo Carignan of Clarkes; seven grandchildren; three nephews; and one niece.

A memorial service was held at 11:00 a.m. Wednesday, March 25, 2009, in Molalla Funeral Chapel followed by a brief graveyard service in the Clarkes Pioneer Cemetery. A reception for family and friends followed in the Clarkes Grange. Originally appeared in the March 24, 2009, Oregonian.

Mantay Resigns As Clackamas County Administrator

Clackamas County Administrator Jonathan Mantay has resigned to pursue other professional opportunities. Mantay announced his departure to County employees. His resignation is effective Tuesday, May 5.

Deputy County Administrator Steve Wheeler has been named as his interim replacement.

Mantay, who took over as County Administrator in 2001, oversaw the consolidation of County buildings to the Red Soils Campus and promoted its sustainability efforts in the construction of two LEED certified buildings and created a Countywide Office of Sustainability; promoted the expansion of several County service districts and shored up the County's fiscal stability. He championed the expansion of the County's park district as well as two new complexes at North Clackamas Park and in Happy Valley and led the transition to an alternative workweek for most County employees, an ongoing pilot project.

"I'm very proud of the many accomplishments we've achieved as a team in Clackamas County. We have a truly outstanding group of employees serving our community and I am confident that the success and progress we've experienced the past few years will continue," he said.

"Jon accomplished a great many things during his tenure as County Administrator. He moved many projects forward, left the County on sound financial footing and built a strong leadership team that has us well positioned going forward", said Board of County Commission Chair Lynn Peterson.

"We on the Board of County Commissioners appreciate his vision and wish him well in his future endeavors."

The March Town Hall Meeting of the Hamlet of Beaver-creek took place on Wednesday, March 25, 2009, at the Beavercreek Elementary School in the Media room at 7:00 p.m. with 37 residents and guests in attendance. The meeting was called to order will all board members present.

There were two quest speakers.

The first was John Rosebrook, a local farmer, who has been in the Beavercreek area since the early 60s. He is the owner of approximately 300 acres in the Beavercreek area (110 acres of which is in the Urban/Rural Reserves Study area). He addressed the members about his concerns with the Urban/Rural Reserves Study that is ongoing.

He does not like either designation and would like to see Beavercreek designated as neither. He would like things to stay the way they are because he is afraid that if Beavercreek is designated either a Urban Reserve or a Rural Reserve, the impact would devalue his property. The Rural Reserve would also not allow him to divide his property. It would impact him and other large land owners.

He stated that he wanted to see small farms and not high density lot sizes for the area. He believes that Beavercreek does not have good agricultural soils. It can grow trees and grasses, but not suited for food crops.

Transportation issues in and out of Beavercreek have been cited as an issue. He does not believe that the roads are an issue, but it is those who drive upon them. He does not believe that the cost to improve the roads and bring them up to current standards would be that expensive. Also, that population growth brings improved infrastructure.

He appealed to the board and to those present for fairness when dealing with the issue.

The second speaker was Elizabeth Graser-Lindsey who has been attending the Urban/Rural Reserve Policy Advisory Committee meetings.

She shared with those present the information that she shared with the committee regarding the Beavercreek area.

Her presentation centered around Oregon Administrative Rule (OAR)-660-027-0060(2). This document drafted by the Legislature is the law that governs land as Rural Reserves. This document lists criteria that need to be considered in designating land a Rural Reserve.

She pointed out that it takes 2 acres of foodshed to grow the food one person eats (1.44 acres for pasture and .64 acres for crops). The ten Reserve Study Areas total 400,000 acres.

With about one million people in the Portland Metropolitan area, and assuming half the land is unsuitable for food production, this means it would take ten times the study area to feed everyone.

Her presentation included maps of the lands inside and around the Hamlet's boundary legally recognized as farm/forest; land with slopes of 10% or greater; the soils designations in the area and the foodshed.

She also discussed that agricultural pursuits are very oil intensive due to fertilizers, machinery, etc. With oil production peaking there will be less available. This will cause changes to agriculture.

The Rural Reserve criteria factors in OAR-660-027-0060 (2) are:

- a. proximity to the Urban Growth Boundary or proximity to properties with fair market values that significantly exceed agricultural values.
- b. capability of sustaining long-tem agricultural operations.
- c. have suitable soils.
- d. suitability to sustain long-term agriculture or forest operations taking into account:
- a. for farm land, existence of large blocks of agricultural land or other resource land with a concentration or cluster of farm operations
 - b. Adjacent land use patterns
 - c. land use pattern, including parcelization

d. sufficiency of agriculture or forestry infrastructure. The meeting minutes of the prior meeting were approved. Christine Kozinski gave a report on the cell tower hearings that are in progress and the Oregon City School District Budget. She asked people to go online and fill out the survey. http://www.zoomerang.com/Survey/survey-intro.zgi?p=WEB228VDSVNVQD

The Beavercreek Charitable Trust in cooperation with the board of the Hamlet is submitting an application to apply for grant money from the Federal Stimulus money to build the park.

There were two land use issues before the members. One, a renewal for a hair salon and the other, a conditional use application by Trinity Lutheran Church. Both passed.

This is only a recap of what transpired at the meeting. There was much more in depth information that there just isn't room here to fully share. Everyone is encouraged to attend the monthly Hamlet Community meetings and the quarterly Town Hall meetings to participate and share ideas and concerns on the issues pertinent to our community. Members 18 years of age and older who live, own a business, or property within the Hamlet area may vote on Hamlet issues. The Hamlet of Beavercreek Boundary Map is located online at http://www.beavercreek_Hamlet_Boundary_map.pdf

The Community meetings take place on the fourth Wednesday of the month at the Beavercreek Grange on Kamrath Rd at 7:00 p.m. The Town Hall Meetings will occur every quarter. For more information, please call the Hamlet Information Line at 503-632-8370 or visit the Hamlet web site at http://HamletOfBeavercreek.org.

New Broadband Rates in Beavercreek

As of April 1, 2009, BCT is pleased to announce that most Broadband rates in the Beavercreek area will be reduced. Over the past 15 months, BCT has been reviewing each of its product offerings. The first Quarter of 2009 was dedicated to finding ways to improve Broadband pricing, speed and reliability.

Our 4 Legged Friends

My Name is "JESSIE" and I'm available for Adoption!

Hello... my name is "Jessie" and I'm available for adoption. I'm a Rhodesian Ridgeback.

I'm a 1 year old female and I weigh approximately 60 to 100lbs. As you can see I'm tan and white in color.

Here is what I have to say for myself!

"Hi, there. My name is Jessie and I'm a nice girl. Just ask me! I'll offer a paw when I meet you to show that I'm a polite lady. I'm eager to please my people friends. Do you have a tasty treat? I'll "sit" when you ask, and I'm learning "down". I'd like further obedience training, especially if it involves treats! I'm very friendly and even seem OK with cats. I'd love to meet you... come on down!

For more information on me or other dogs available for adoption, please call the shelter at 503-655-8628 or come by for a visit and a little one-on-one. You can also see us at the Clackamas County Dog Control website at:

www.co.clackamas.or.us/dc/adoptdog.jsp

The shelter is located at 2104 Kaen Rd., in Oregon City. I'm available from 12:30 to 4:30 p.m., Thursday thru Monday. I'd sure love to get the chance to meet you. "JESSIE"

See you next month...
The Editor!
